Wonka and Namco, the perfect Candy team!

Wonka Sweetland

Sweetland has always been a behemoth success in Japan, but the North American market was never able to capitalize on this product due to the premium prices the Japanese market can bare. Once Namco approved sourcing manufacturing to Unis Corporation this legendary piece was finally priced amicable to the North American buyer. As with Namco tradition, good enough was not and a partnership with Wonka Candies was forged.

Through this partnership, Namco was able to re-brand and improve an already legendary game and offer operators candy packages pre-arranged for the machine. This attractive combination proved to be a strong earner as test results soared above expectations. The legendary Japanese hit finally crossed the ocean!
